

NL HYDRO MUSEUM

The NL Hydro Museum offers an immersive experience with art, artifacts, and a multi-media presentation that illustrate the life of sealers. It covers their journey to the ice, their family life onshore, and the extraordinary risks they took to support their families.

ELLIOTT ART GALLERY

“You Don’t Know Cold” is a larger-than-life, generational triptych by visual artist John McDonald, created as a resident artist at The Rooms. His rare and impressive technique make these numbing images of penetrating cold serve as an emotional backdrop for rotating exhibits by other acclaimed and emerging Newfoundland and Labrador artists whose works focus on our sense of place.

NL POWER BOUTIQUE

Discover craft-accredited treasures celebrating Newfoundland and Labrador’s culture and heritage. Explore locally handcrafted sealskin products, jewelry, knitwear, and literary works by NL authors and publishers. Each piece is a tribute to skilled artisans and storytellers. For the discerning visitor seeking authenticity. Shop local. Honor tradition. Take home a story.

MEMORIAL SITE

Walk the interpretive path to Porter’s Point, where a striking bronze sculpture by Morgan McDonald and a massive monument wall honor the sealers lost in the Great Sealing Disaster of 1914. The stone memorial bears the names of those who perished, ensuring their sacrifice is never forgotten. Experience history. Honor the brave.
